

Chronic Cough

Chronic cough can come from many causes. It can be a side effect of certain medications called ACE inhibitors (commonly use to treat high blood pressure), post nasal drainage, allergic rhinitis, asthma, chronic sinus infections, acid reflux and other more obscure causes. Our physicians will work with you to identify the underlying cause of your cough and work with you on appropriate measures to help diminish or alleviate the problem.